

Secondhand Furniture Shops

This is a list of secondhand furniture dealers in the area. The list is not exhaustive. You should also check in the Yellow Pages telephone book under Furniture - Secondhand or through the yellow.com.au website, again under Furniture—Secondhand. Another good source is your local community newspaper and noticeboards around campus. Both the “Readers Mart” in “The Sunday Times” newspaper and “The Quokka” newspaper (available weekly from garages and newsagents) also list many items of secondhand furniture, which are being offered for sale privately.

The University of WA Housing Service is an information service only. University staff do not interview students or make any assessment of a student's character or financial means etc. prior to allowing the student to access the Housing Listings. Each individual listing their property with the University Housing Service must make their own assessment of a student's character and/or suitability as a tenant. Any lease arrangement negotiated between a student and landlord is the responsibility of the parties involved.
